

5210.0835 INTERIM ORDERS.

An employer may request an interim order to be effective until a decision is made on the application for variance. Affected employees and authorized employee representatives of affected employees shall be notified of the interim order request by the same means used to notify them of the application for variance. No interim order may remain in effect for longer than 180 days. If the commissioner denies the request for an interim order, the applicant shall be given a written notice of the denial including an explanation of the reasons for denying the request.
