Part V. Construction of Statutes and Express Repeals

CHAPTER 107

Statutes

THE REVISED LAWS AND THEIR EFFECT

10922. Continuation of former laws.

An intent to change the law will not be lightly inferred from a mere change of phraseology in a revision. Gilroy's Estate, 193M349, 258NW584. See Dun. Dig. 8961.

A revision of existing statutes is presumed not to have changed their meaning, even if there be phraseological alterations, unless an intention to change clearly appears from language of revised statute when considered in connection with subject-matter of act and its legislative history. State v. Montague, 195M278, 262NW684. See Dun. Dig. 8961.

CONSTRUCTION

10928. When to take effect.

Act takes effect the beginning of the day following its approval. Op. Atty. Gen., Apr. 9, 1929.

Laws 1933, c. 251, approved on April 15, became operative on April 16. Op. Atty. Gen., June 24, 1933.

Rule against retroactive legislation as a basic principle of jurisprudence. 20 MinnLawRev 775.

10929. Revision to operate as repeal, when.

State v. Schimelpfenig, 192M55, 255NW253; note under §§297, 10933(21).

Section 1538-1 does not repeal or modify the provisions of the charter of the City of St. Paul providing for condemnation of land for street and highway purposes. 177M146, 225NW86.

When two legislative acts are not expressly repugnant, but later act covers entire subject-matter of earlier and does not purport to amend it, and if it plainly appears that later act was intended as a substitute for earlier, it will operate as a repeal of former. Board of Education v. B., 192M367, 256NW894. See Dun. Dig. 8926.

If a statute is manifestly inconsistent with a prior statute covering the same subject, it repeals it, in whole or protanto, without any repealing clause, in absence of an expressed intention to contrary. Bemis Bro. Bag Co. v. W., 197M216, 266NW690. See Dun. Dig. 8927.

10930. Effect of repeal.

Sheriff agreeing to pay detective $25 for each conviction for violation of liquor laws could pay such amount in pending cases for convictions occurring after effective date of Laws 1933, c. 130. Op. Atty. Gen., Apr. 28, 1933.

10932. Rules of construction.¼. Rules of construction in general.

Prima facie effect of similar South Dakota law construed. Berlin v. K., 183M278, 236NW307. See Dun. Dig. 8821, 8937a(99), 8956.

As between a statutory provision with special and limited application, and another, general in scope, special controls general within former's limited field. Rosenquist v. O., 187M375, 245NW621. See Dun. Dig. 8970.

Ambiguity will be resolved in favor of state. State v. Walsh, 188M412, 247NW523. See Dun. Dig. 8990.

Literal meaning of statute is not always conclusive, and there must be resort to construction when words, otherwise plain, result in ambiguity when applied to their subject-matter. State v. Walsh, 188M523, 247NW523. See Dun. Dig. 8938.

Strict construction of statutes in derogation of common law must not be used as cover for extraconstitutional limitations on legislative power. State v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 190M162, 251NW275. See Dun. Dig. 1602.

However radical its change, a statute is not to be so narrowed by construction as to defeat its purpose, simply because it is an innovation on common-law principles. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8958.

Rules of judicial construction require that so far as possible conflicting provisions of a city charter be harmonized in conformity with announced legislative policy of state. State v. Erickson, 190M216, 251NW519. See Dun. Dig. 8951.

Fundamental rules of construction of statutes is to give effect to intention of legislature as expressed in language used. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8940.

Where there is a conflict, law later in point of original enactment will control. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8961.

Where facts are undisputed and provisions of ordinance are unambiguous and stated in clear language, we cannot, by construction, change its terms or result of its application to facts. Zalk & Josephs Realty Co. v. S., 191M60, 253NW8. See Dun. Dig. 1595.

The maxim expressio unius does not apply to constitutions with the same force that it does to statutes. Reed v. B., 191M254, 253NW102. See Dun. Dig. 1576.

Ordinances and statutes must be given a reasonable and practical construction in accordance with intention of law makers. State v. Witt's Market House, 191M425, 254NW596. See Dun. Dig. 8939, 8943.

Rule of practical construction of statutes is not entitled to much weight against state in determining taxability of property. Board of Education v. B., 192M367, 256NW894. See Dun. Dig. 8952.

It will be presumed that legislature intended an amendment to make some change in the law. State v. City of Eveleth, 194M44, 260NW223. See Dun. Dig. 8997.

Common usage can be resorted to in interpreting statute. Bennett Commission Co. v. N., 195M7, 261NW693. See Dun. Dig. 8968.

If language of statute is reasonably susceptible of two constructions, the one rendering it constitutional must be adopted. State v. Montague, 195M278, 262NW684. See Dun. Dig. 8931, 8950.

A dominant rule of statutory construction is to discover that purpose, object sought to be accomplished should be given great consideration. North Shore Fish & Freight Co. v. N., 195M336, 263NW98. See Dun. Dig. 8940.

Courts may consider what might happen under statute to be construed if given construction contended for. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8947.

Meaning should be given to every portion of a document or statute. State v. Goodrich, 195M644, 264NW234. See Dun. Dig. 8951.

Where there is ambiguity, whole instrument or document should be considered in construction. Id.

Where a statute has been judicially construed, especially when administrative and executive officers charged with its enforcement have acquiesced therein over a long period of time, such construction becomes a part thereof, and its meaning and import are measured thereby. Bemis Bro. Bag Co. v. W., 197M216, 266NW690. See Dun. Dig. 8952.

A statute must be construed so as to be practicable if that is possible. Taxes Delinquent, 197M266, 266NW867. See Dun. Dig. 8939.

Both constitutional and statutory declarations are to be interpreted in light of tacit assumptions upon which it is reasonable to suppose that language was used. State v. Flores, 197M590, 268NW194. See Dun. Dig. 8940.

When language of a statute is plain and unambiguous, there is no room for construction. Hall Hardware Co. v. G., 197M619, 268NW202. See Dun. Dig. 8938, 8950, 8951.

Statutes are to be so construed as to suppress mischief and advance remedy, to promote rather than defeat legislative purpose. State v. Sobelman, 199M232, 271NW484. See Dun. Dig. 8962.

Clear and express purpose of legislature cannot be disregarded. Van Sloun v. D., 199M434, 272NW271. See Dun. Dig. 8938.

Such construction should be adopted as will give effect to obvious legislative intent. Knudson v. A., 199M479, 272NW376. See Dun. Dig. 8937(95).

A construction resulting in absurdity, injustice, or inconvenience is to be avoided if language used will reasonably bear any other construction. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8947.

Court must construe statute as a whole and give effect to all of its parts. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8951.

Practical construction of a statute by the bar for a long time is entitled to some weight, and in matters of practice it is entitled to great weight. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8952.

Statutes are presumed not to make any alteration in common law further or otherwise than they expressly declare and existing common law remedies are not to be taken away by a statute unless by express enactment or necessary implication. State v. St. Cloud Milk Producers' Ass'n., 273NW603. See Dun. Dig. 8958.

Practical construction placed on taxing statutes by assessors, Tax Commission, and Attorney General, should have weight with courts. Holmes v. B., 273NW623. See Dun. Dig. 8952, 9177.

Act is to be liberally construed to give effect to real intent of legislature. Colosimo v. G., 199M600, 273NW632. See Dun. Dig. 8940.

Ascertainment of legislative intent is aim sought in construing language of doubtful meaning whether that be employed in statutes or ordinances, and rules of interpretation are but guides to aid court in arriving at true intent. Burns, 273NW691. See Dun. Dig. 8939, 8940.

Construction of statute must be reasonable, such as language used will reasonably bear. It must be practical. Questions involving government must not be determined along technical lines, but practical considerations should control. Id.

If intent of legislature is clearly expressed in plain and unambiguous language in a statute, court must give effect thereto, and, in absence of manifest mistake, such a statute is not one requiring construction. Gullings v. S., 273NW703. See Dun. Dig. 8938.

While a penal statute is to be strictly construed, such construction cannot be contrary to language used. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8989.

Ordinary function of a proviso is to exempt something from a statute which would otherwise be within its provisions, and it must be construed in harmony with remainder of statute. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8996.

A statute is to be enforced literally as it reads if its language embodies a definite meaning which involves no absurdity or contradiction. Peterson v. H., 273NW812. See Dun. Dig. 8938.

Although a statute be remedial in its terms and purposes, and as such to be liberally construed, court is without power to change plain language thereof by construing it so as to mean something different from what is clearly stated. Id.

Operation of statutes is often extended, by construction, to matters of subsequent creation and applied to conditions that accrue after their passage as well as to those that existed before. Equality Tp. v. S., 274NW219. See Dun. Dig. 8943.

A construction of a statute which would result in absurdity, injustice, or inconvenience is to be avoided if language used will reasonably bear any other construction. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8943, 8947.

Provision in legislative act declaring all provisions to be inseparable and that if any clause is invalid, then whole act shall be invalid will be considered by the court to determine intent of legislature but court is not necessarily controlled thereby. Op. Atty. Gen. (724r), Feb. 21, 1935.

Practical construction of statutes. 20MinnLawRev56. Rule against retroactive legislation as a basic principle of jurisprudence. 20 MinnLawRev 775.

1. Judicial duty and policy.

A court will pass upon the constitutionality of a law only when necessary. 181M427, 232NW737. See Dun. Dig. 8930a.

Court must consider act valid until satisfied to contrary beyond a reasonable doubt. Sweet v. R., 189M489, 250NW46. See Dun. Dig. 8931.

Every presumption is in favor of constitutionality of act of legislature and an act should not be declared unconstitutional except when court is satisfied, after most careful consideration, that it conflicts with some provision of state or Federal Constitution. Reed v. B., 191 M254, 253NW102. See Dun. Dig. 8929.

When a statute is challenged for unconstitutionality, it is the duty of the court to so construe it as to render it constitutional if it is possible to do so, though it may not virtually rewrite an unambiguous law. Moses v. O., 192M173, 255NW617. See Dun. Dig. 8931.

Rules of statutory construction should not be enforced inflexibly, not being masters but rather servants of courts as aids in determining legislative intent. Board of Education v. B., 192M367, 256NW894. See Dun. Dig. 8937.

Construction of bankruptcy act by United States Supreme Court prevails over any contrary interpretation by state courts. Landy v. M., 193M252, 258NW573. See Dun. Dig. 738.

An intent to change the law will not be lightly inferred from a mere change of phraseology in a revision. Gilroy's Estate, 193M349, 258NW584. See Dun. Dig. 8961.

Court must take statute as it finds it and is not at liberty to add to it by a process which would be an amendment, and, in effect, judicial legislation. Ross v. S., 193M407, 258NW582. See Dun. Dig. 8940.

Where evidence showed that defendant deliberately pointed gun at wife and shot her, court did not err in refusing to submit manslaughter. State v. Norton, 194M410, 260NW502. See Dun. Dig. 2486.

Courts will not declare a law unconstitutional unless it clearly appears that it violates one or more provisions of constitution. State v. Scott County, 195M111, 261NW 863. See Dun. Dig. 8929.

Statute will not be construed so as to render it unconstitutional when it is open to a construction which is fair, reasonable, and wholly consistent with the constitution. North Shore Fish & Freight Co. v. N., 195M336, 263 NW98. See Dun. Dig. 8950.

A revision of an existing statute is presumed not to have changed meaning, even if there be phraseological alterations, unless an intention to change clearly appears from language of revised statute when considered in connection with subject-matter of act and its legislative history. Champ v. B., 197M49, 266NW94. See Dun. Dig. 8957.

Where meaning of revised statute is free from ambiguity, prior law cannot be resorted to for purpose of creating ambiguity. Id. See Dun. Dig. 8961.

Fact that validity of city ordinance has not been raised on many appeals in other cases does not prevent raising of that issue in a particular case, but such fact may be taken into consideration in determining validity. State v. Davis, 197M381, 267NW210. See Dun. Dig. 1579.

Power of court to declare a law unconstitutional is to be exercised only when absolutely necessary in particular case, and then with great caution. Muller v. T., 197M608, 268NW204. See Dun. Dig. 8929, 8930, 8931.

Every law is presumed constitutional in the first instance. An act will not be declared unconstitutional unless its invalidity clearly appears. Id.

Court is bound by construction placed upon statute of another state by supreme court of that state. Thorsness v. W., 198M270, 269NW637. See Dun. Dig. 8994.

Statutes are to be so construed as to suppress mischief and advance remedy, to promote rather than defeat legislative purpose. State v. Bean, 199M16, 270NW918. See Dun. Dig. 8962.

Construction of a statute which will nullify it, in whole or in part, is to be avoided if reasonably possible. Tomasko v. C., 273NW628. See Dun. Dig. 8950(63).

2. Who may question validity.

A litigant may be heard to question the constitutionality of a statute only when it is about to be applied to his disadvantage. 181M427, 232NW737. See Dun. Dig. 8935(79).

Public officials who have no personal pecuniary interest in the matter involved will not be permitted to raise the question of the constitutionality of a statute to avoid the performance of a ministerial duty which it clearly imposes upon them. 181M427, 232NW737. See Dun. Dig. 8935(78).

3. Repeal.

See notes under §10929.

Where two inconsistent statutes are enacted at same session of Legislature, first must give way to last as latest expression of lawmaking power. State v. Schimelpfenig, 192M55, 255NW258. See Dun. Dig. 8927.

Before it can be said that a later act is intended as a substitute for earlier, there must be unmistakable intent manifested on part of legislature to make new act a substitute for old and to contain all law on subject. State v. Sobelman, 199M232, 271NW484. See Dun. Dig. 8926(15).
